Video Assignment Tool

You can set up a video assignment for students to complete presentations online with or without an audience. Students can record in Online Rooms or upload a video of themselves presenting on a topic or demonstrating a specific skill.

Examples of assessments that can be completed using video assignment include demonstrations, interviews, role plays, foreign language conversations or basic lab work. Assignments can be group-based or individual.

To learn more on video assignments, please visit CITL's Technology Resources page.

For group projects, students can schedule an Online Rooms session where they can moderate a presentation or a discussion with group members they invite. The session can be recorded and submitted for other students to assess.

Additional information about Video Assignments and assignment types can be found at CITL's Technology Resources page.
